REPORT ON: “CAREER GUIDANCE AND STRESS MANAGEMENT” PROGRAM

A career oriented guidance and stress management program was conducted by Skill Development and Placement Cell in collaboration with Psychology Department, held on 9th of April, 2021, at Rayburn College, Churachandpur.

Students of B.Sc 2nd Semesters were invited to witness and obtain the most advantage out of this program. Mr. Thangmuansang Guite, Proprietor – Tunnu Engineering & Consultancy, who speaks about “Engineering as a career” and Miss Nemy Tombing, Counsellor - Rayburn High School, Churachandpur, who presented various stress management techniques were invited as resource persons.

This program aimed at helping the students in finding the best career options, provide information on the nature and scope of various job opportunities and provide them with the skills and knowledge they need to make for important decisions throughout their life as well as set goals for their future in the field of Science & Engineering.

The addition of stress management techniques in this program will help them understand better and accepts their stress and anxiety that grows out of their stressful life as natural processes. Also, it will help them manage their time more efficiently and effectively and keep a positive attitude towards career options available to them in making their life more achieving and progress.

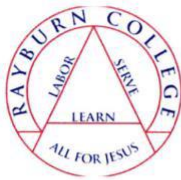

This program was conducted successfully throughout the whole session and it is believed that the students benefitted the most out of the program.

Rayburn College organises awareness about career in mathematics at its campus today:

On September 9, 2022, at 10:00 AM, the Department of Mathematics, Rayburn College, organized career awareness in Mathematics at its College Faculty Lounge. Sir Khaiminthang hosted the program, and Sir Jambiakmuan started the program with a welcome address. This was followed by a speech from the Resource Person, Sir Thangthuum, Surveyor, Survey of India.

Sir Thangthuum, the program's speaker, emphasized the importance of choosing Mathematics as a career path and demonstrated the importance of studying numbers at university. He elaborated on the field of mathematics career opportunities, which are also reasonably lucrative.

He further exclaims that math students are keen problem solvers, eager to make sense of even the most advanced equations. In this fast-developing world, academic research is a common career path, but so are a business, economics, and banking careers. This wide range of opportunities comes from the universal need for graduates with strong analytical and problem-solving skills – which math graduates should have by the bucketload, which gives rise to the importance of studying math. In the current discourse, Mathematical experts are in demand across all kinds of industries worldwide.

He encourages the students to study math so that they'll have access to career opportunities in sectors they may never have even considered, including specialized fields such as law or medicine. However, many math careers are based within business or science and technology-related sectors, with math graduates occupying roles such as accountant, actuary, statistician, technician, economist, or market researcher; with these insightful messages, Sir Thangthuam concluded his speech.

After a short, interactive session among the program participants, the program was adjourned with words of thanks from Dr. Kh.Thianminlian Vaiphei, Vice Principal of Rayburn College.
